Constipation Makes Baby Uncomfortable

When its tender little organs are bound up with a congestion of stomach waste in the bowels, baby is a mighty uncomfortable morsel of humanity, and reflects its discomfort in its disposition. If mother will just give it a tiny dose of a mild laxative, such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the congestion will quickly loosen and be expelled, and her child be normal and happy once more.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is especially desirable for children, because it contains no opiate or narcotic drug, being a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, mild and gentle in action, positive in effect, and very palatable. Children like it and take it readily. Druggists sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for fifty cents a bottle, a trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 456 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

CITY ENGINEER
VACANCY BODES
ILL FOR TAXES

Fear'd Payments Will Fall Off as Department Heads Rely on Collins for Pointers

Unless Mayor Joseph J. Fern and the board of supervisors come to an agreement shortly and settle the matter of the appointment of a new city and county engineer to fill the place of George M. Collins, whose resignation takes effect at the end of the month, the department will be without a competent head, and there is a grave possibility that through the resulting ruddle the city and county will be hampered in the collection of thousands of dollars which should rightly roll into its treasury from the frontage tax for street improvements. With Fred Ohrt, Collins' assistant, also leaving the service, civic officials generally fear that even a short vacancy of the city and county engineer's position will cause considerable trouble in various departments, and this will be particularly felt in the city and county treasurer's office where the money due from the frontage tax is paid in. The treasurer's office fears a decrease in payments will result immediately if the engineer's position is left vacant.

Since the system of frontage taxation on street improvement was inaugurated, the city and county engineer has been in close touch with each project along these lines and has the names of those affected by the street improvement assessments at his finger tips. The other departments have come to rely on him for assistance in keeping track of the odds and ends of these projects, and should his office be left vacant, it is claimed that the result will be that those who do not pay their frontage tax will hamper the treasurer's office, and the departments will have considerable difficulty in learning who the delinquent citizens are.

The only other man in the city and county engineer's office who has these matters well in hand is Assistant Road Supervisor Fred Ohrt, whose resignation takes effect at the same time as that of George M. Collins.

Questioned today as to why he was resigning, Fred Ohrt refused to discuss the matter other than to say: "When a man has been in the service of the city and county for four years he naturally expects something like a promotion. And a promotion is not a promotion if a man has to go out and seek it. His work should merit it for him."

During the past week Mayor Fern hinted several times that he would bring up the nominees' names for the position, but the end of the month is rapidly approaching without an apparent settlement between himself and the board in regard to the appointment of a new engineer, and the view is generally held that it will be some time in October before the matter is finally straightened out and the position filled.

Visitors Enthusiastic Over Honolulu's Entertainment; Maui Promises 1918 Fun

Expressing satisfaction at the results accomplished, and uttering final convention yells, the Maui and Hawaii delegations to the Sixth Civic Convention, departed for their homes this morning on the Mauna Kea. The Maui delegates left on the Kilauea at 11 o'clock last night.

The convention sessions closed yesterday afternoon after Maui was selected as the meeting place for the 1918 convention, but the final event did not occur until the banquet at the Moana hotel and the polihonua and dance at the Young were ended.

While the work of the Civic Convention is entirely suggestive action, and not mandatory, its deliberations are yearly considered more important to the law making and law enforcing bodies of the territory. As remarked by Judge Delbert Metzger of Hilo at the opening session: "The stamp of approval or disapproval of the Civic Convention is becoming more important at each annual meeting."

Aside from the patriotic trend of all the discussions at this convention, much deliberation was given to the territorial road problems, and food conservation and food production.

One of the final acts of the convention was the passage of a resolution strongly endorsing and supporting the action of President Wilson in declaring and pressing the war against Germany. This resolution was introduced by W. O. Smith.

Five papers were read during the afternoon, in addition to the resolutions presented and the reports of the committees submitted. The resolutions committee, through Dr. H. B. Elliott, its chairman, reported favorably on a number of resolutions to the afternoon. All those recommended were passed by the convention. They included a resolution recommending the appointment of a committee of five by the convention to work toward the establishment of a federal park in Hawaii.

After the speaking J. A. Beaven presented a resolution asking the members to take a food conservation pledge. There was a difference of opinion as to the taking of the pledge, as some of the men wanted the feminine half of the family to attend to that part of the war duties, but at the end the resolution was passed, with a few dissenting votes.

W. O. Aiken moved that the thanks of the convention be extended to the owners of Lanika for the use of the theater for the meetings. The motion passed unanimously.

A vote of thanks to J. F. C. Hagena, who had acted as president of the convention meetings, and to Raymond C. Brown, the secretary, was called for by Dr. Elliott and passed unanimously. Dr. Elliott also included the Honolulu hosts "who had entertained the convention so royally and splendidly and presented such an excellent program for their consideration" in the vote of thanks.

Not least in interest at the final session was a paper presented by Dr. L. N. Case on the breeding and raising of stock in these islands. Beef, pork and mutton raised for food purposes were reviewed by Doctor Case, as well as the breeding and raising of horses for work, army use, polo and racing. Doctor Case's report follows in part: "Live stock breeders in this territory have awakened to the fact that it is much more profitable to breed high class animals than scrubs and so they are every year importing the very best type of pure bred stock in ever increasing numbers."

"The importation of this class of breeding stock and the raising of pure bred and high grade animals is the one and only solution of the problem confronting us, i. e., whether or not this territory can become self supporting in so far as animal products are concerned."

"As far as meat is concerned, the territory has gone far toward supplying its demand; especially is this true of beef and pork. The great advance which has been made during the past ten or twelve years in the production of high class beef, mutton and pork is not generally realized by the public. Pork Production

"The production of pork would seem to be a very attractive field especially so now as the prices are the highest ever paid, producers getting from 19 to 20 cents a pound live weight compared to 10 and 11 cents before the war."

"The dairy industry has not kept pace with the improvement noted in other lines of animal husbandry. The scrub dairy cow is still much in evidence and will probably so remain until the general run of dairymen are educated up to the fact that it costs no more to keep a well bred highly productive animal as it does a scrub besides being vastly more profitable. When this point is reached there will be a considerable demand for the best type of dairy animal which demand should be met by the breeders in these islands. Some of the ranchers are already taking up the breeding of blooded dairy stock and will soon be in a position to furnish a considerable number."

Supervisor Hollinger Says Unwise to Let City Heads Buy Own Supplies

Advocating that the board of supervisors instead of abolishing the city purchasing department, as has been suggested in the report of the ways and means committee, which investigated the matter, should commit itself to the preservation and reorganization of this particular department, Supervisor Ben Hollinger submitted his minority report as a member of the finance and expenditure committee at the meeting yesterday afternoon.

As the members were in a hurry to leave, the report was laid on the table to be discussed at the next meeting, which will be held next Tuesday. The meeting was to have been a "dress suit" affair, but the members decided earlier in the afternoon that it would be better to make a short meeting of it instead of making a display of gay attire while in session. With the exception of reading Supervisor Hollinger's minority report, and considering a few trivial matters, the meeting was able to adjourn within 20 minutes.

Supervisor Hollinger in his report disagreed with the findings of the majority report and opposed the plan to abolish the city purchasing department on the grounds that the old system of letting department heads do their own buying would tend to corrupt the morale of the civic employees. He pointed to the fact that under the old system actual cases of dishonesty were disclosed and intimated that if the same system were brought into force again there would probably be more cases of a similar nature.

He advocated the passing of an ordinance giving the purchasing agent more power and suggested that the nagging opposition to the department by municipal officials be eradicated. His report concluded with a recommendation that the majority report be laid on the table and the board take up the preservation and reorganization of the purchasing department and that further a committee be appointed to further investigate the department with a view to enlarging the powers of the agent.
